Senate Bill 567
Shotgun Definition
Senator Jackson

PURPOSE

This measure will ensure that shotguns with revolving cylinders remain illegal under California's assault weapons ban. Additionally, the measure will clarify that legally owned pistol grip shotguns which are not capable of being shot from the shoulder simply because they lack a shoulder stock, are included in the legal definition of a shotgun so that they remain legal under California law. The measure will also clarify that certain legally owned hunting firearms that are marketed and sold as shotguns, meet California's legal definition of shotguns.

BACKGROUND

In 1989, California passed the Roberti-Roos Act, the first statewide law in the nation designed to ban the sale or possession of assault weapons.

It quickly became evident that gun manufacturers could circumvent the ban by making simple alterations in a banned gun's design in order to make the ban inapplicable to the newly designed firearm. This practice necessitated additional legislation, adopted in 1999, to add the altered assault weapons to the existing list of banned guns.

NEED FOR THE BILL

SB 567 addresses a similar situation. Under existing law, "smooth bore" shotguns with a "revolving cylinder" are classified as "assault weapons" and are illegal to sell, use or possess in California. However, gun manufacturers have begun manufacturing this same banned shotgun with a "rifled" bore which is not specifically banned under current law even though it shoots the same ammunition.

According to law enforcement, the current definition of the banned assault weapons does not cover the newly designed shotgun that manufacturers are producing and needs to be updated. SB 610 will accomplish this and close a loophole that manufacturers have been able to exploit.

SB 299 (DeSaulnier)
As Amended – April 10, 2013
LOST OR STOLEN FIREARMS
Fact Sheet

SUMMARY

---

SB 299 requires every person whose firearm is lost or stolen to notify local law enforcement that their firearm was lost or stolen in order to improve public safety in California.

---

Seven states, the District of Columbia, and nine cities in California currently require firearm owners to report to law enforcement when their firearms are lost or stolen. The State of California does not.

Currently, firearms dealers and manufacturers must report any lost or stolen firearms within 48 hours, and local law enforcement must enter reports of lost or stolen firearms into the state's Automated Property System database. However, firearm owners whose guns are lost or stolen are not required to do anything. As a result, law enforcement efforts to investigate gun crimes and disarm dangerous criminals are significantly hindered.

The public overwhelmingly supports laws requiring the reporting of lost or stolen firearms. A nationwide poll in 2011 found that 94% of Americans surveyed, including 94% of gun owners, favor laws to require the reporting of lost or stolen firearms.

In California, 2,972 residents died from firearm-related injuries in 2009, and 3,545 others were treated for non-fatal gunshot wounds. Of the 1,811 Californians murdered in 2010, 1,257, or 69%, were killed with firearms.

SB 299 will improve public safety in California by combatting gun trafficking through the use of "straw purchasers," keep guns away from prohibited persons and notify law enforcement about the presence of stolen guns.

Fight Gun Trafficking –

When a crime gun is traced by law enforcement to the last known purchaser, that person may falsely claim that the gun was lost or stolen to hide his or her involvement in the crime or in gun trafficking. A reporting requirement will provide a tool for law enforcement to detect firearms trafficking and prosecute "straw purchasers," individuals who buy firearms on behalf of criminals who are prohibited from possessing guns.

An analysis by Mayors Against Illegal Guns – a nationwide coalition of over 600 mayors – found that states without mandatory lost or stolen reporting laws export two and a half times more crime guns across state lines than jurisdictions with such laws. Similarly, researchers from the Johns Hopkins Center for Gun Policy and Research found that state laws requiring the reporting of lost or stolen firearms were associated with crime gun export rates that were 43% lower than in states that lacked this policy.

Get Guns Away from Prohibited Persons –

Mandatory reporting of lost or stolen firearms would enhance the California Department of Justice's efforts to remove firearms from convicted criminals and others identified in the state's Armed and Prohibited Persons System database. Currently, these individuals, who own firearms but are prohibited from possessing them, may falsely claim that their illegally-possessioned firearms were lost or stolen.

Notify Law Enforcement about Missing Firearms –

A reporting requirement would alert law enforcement to the existence of guns stolen by criminals in their communities. It would also make it easier for law enforcement to return lost or stolen firearms to their rightful owners. A 2007 report by the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) recommended that state and local governments mandate reporting of lost or stolen firearms. The IACP report concluded that, "law enforcement's early awareness of every lost and stolen gun will enhance their ability to recover those guns and reduce gun violence."

THIS BILL

SB 299 requires that every person whose firearm is lost or stolen must notify local law enforcement within 48 hours of the time they knew or reasonable should have known that the firearm had been lost or stolen. If the firearm is subsequently recovered they must also notify the local law enforcement agency within 48 hours of the recovery.

NEW SUSTAINABLE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT LEGISLATION

SB 1 (Steinberg) of 2013

Background:

On December 29, 2011, the California Supreme Court required the dissolution of California redevelopment agencies. However, in the wake of stubborn unemployment and recession, resources are needed to stimulate economic development in a strategic manner. SB 1 would authorize the creation of Sustainable Communities Investment Areas. This legislation will give cities and counties a modest tool to support sustainable economic development that creates good jobs, affordable housing and a healthy environment

SB 1 (Steinberg) of 2013:

- Communities would be authorized to create Sustainable Communities Investment Areas in transit priority areas, clean manufacturing districts and small walkable communities. Projects in these areas would relieve blight according to legislative findings. No local determination of blight would be required.
- Tax increment financing would be available to support economic development, but the school share would be protected so that the program would not impact the State general fund.
- Tax increment financing would be authorized to support High Speed Rail stations and related infrastructure.
- A city or county could form a Sustainable Communities Investment Authority and access its own share of tax increment or greater levels of tax increment could be accessed through local government collaboration.
- Projects supported by Sustainable Communities investment Areas will require the inclusion of a jobs plan describing the short and long term benefits of the program.
- Plans for Sustainable Communities Investment Areas will include all the affordable housing protections of the current redevelopment law.
- Sustainable Communities Investment Authorities will have all the powers, duties, and obligations that former redevelopment agencies possessed under the Community Redevelopment Law.
- 5 year audits would be required under the new program pursuant to guidelines set by the Controller.

Assemblymember Toni Atkins, 78th Assembly District
AB 1229 – Affirming Local Control of Affordable Housing: Inclusionary Zoning

IN BRIEF

AB 1229 would re-authorize cities and counties to adopt ordinances with inclusionary rental housing requirements for lower income households.

The purpose of the bill is to return local control to local governments to adopt and/or continue to implement their own inclusionary housing policies. This ability is restored by overturning a 2009 appellate court decision.

BACKGROUND

Inclusionary zoning (IZ) describes local land use ordinances that require a fractional portion of units in a new housing development to be offered at affordable levels to low-income and moderate-income families. Inclusionary units can be rental or homeownership units.

Inclusionary zoning policies have existed in California for nearly 40 years as a way to establish economically diverse communities with housing that is affordable to a range of income groups.

They help ensure that, as we build communities, there are places for workers to live near their jobs. They allow lower-income families to benefit from better schools and better services. These policies have also proven to reduce opposition to affordable housing by ensuring it's included at the beginning as the new community is developed.

Nearly 170 cities and counties have some form of inclusionary housing policy in place as a complement to other local, state, and federal programs to help address California's affordable housing shortage, combat discrimination, and reduce pollution and greenhouse gas emissions.

In the past decade alone, inclusionary programs have produced approximately 30,000 units of new housing affordable to lower-income households.

THE ISSUE

Local inclusionary housing programs have been successfully implemented in California for decades until very recently.

A recent appellate court decision, Palmer/Sixth Street Properties L.P. v. City of Los Angeles, 175 Cal. App. 4th 1396 (2009), has created uncertainty and confusion for local governments about the availability of this important local land use tool.

The Palmer decision held for the first time that the state's Costa-Hawkins rent control law (Civil Code §§ 1954.50-1954.535) prohibits local governments from creating affordable rental housing through local inclusionary housing programs.

Now, this well-established policy that has provided quality affordable housing to over 80,000 Californians is in jeopardy.

THE SOLUTION

Local inclusionary housing programs in California have proven to be one of the most effective tools for producing new homes that are affordable to working families and for creating strong, economically diverse communities with a range of housing options.

Inclusionary housing policies have also allowed low-wage workers to live closer to their jobs, thereby reducing the state's pollution and greenhouse gas emissions. It is one of the best tools available to promote sustainable and greener communities.

AB 1229 would restore local control over these important land use decisions back to local governments.

Alameda County Transportation Sales Tax Measure

PROBLEM

Alameda and Contra Costa counties have a long history of being self-help counties, willing to raise revenue on their own to fund key local transportation projects that are vital to their economies. The region's overall ability to offer a broad range of transportation options to meet the needs of a diverse population of local businesses, workers, students and residents is crucial to its success.

In 1986, Alameda County voters approved a transportation sales tax measure. In 2000, Measure B, was approved with 81.5 percent of voters' support. The projects include BART extensions and transit station development, freeway widening, interchange improvements, local street and road improvements, transit operations and special transportation services for disabled individuals and seniors. These projects are developed after considerable public community meetings and input from all parts of the county.

In 2011, the state Legislature approved AB 1086, giving Alameda County an exemption to the 2 percent local sales tax limit if voters approved an increase on the November, 2012 ballot. Measure B1 received an overwhelming 66.53 percent level of support from Alameda County voters last November, but failed by roughly 700 votes to reach the required two-thirds threshold.

Contra Costa County voters approved transportation measures in 1988 and 2004. The Contra Costa

AB 210 would allow the county to meet its future transportation needs by exempting it from the local sales tax limit if a countywide transportation sales tax is approved by voters before Dec. 31, 2020.

EXISTING LAW

Existing law authorizes various local governmental entities, subject to certain limitations and approval requirements, to levy a transactions and use tax for specific purpose, in accordance with the procedures and requirements set forth in the Transactions and Use Tax Law, including a requirement that the combined rate of all taxes that may be imposed under that law in the county may not exceed 2 percent.

AB 210 would exempt Alameda and Contra Costa counties from that limit, if a transactions and use tax measure is approved by county voters before Dec. 31, 2020.

SB 52 (Leno & Hill)

As amended May 16, 2013

The California DISCLOSE Act

FACT SHEET

SB 52 will increase the information available in political campaigns to help voters make rational, well-informed decisions and raise voter confidence in the electoral process. The bill will require the three largest funders of political advertisements for or against candidates or ballot measures to be clearly and unambiguously identified directly on all advertisements, including television, radio, print and mass mailer ads. It will also require campaign committees to maintain a website where the largest funders are disclosed.

PURPOSE

Over the last several years, there has been an unprecedented rise in campaign spending with hundreds of millions of dollars being spent in California alone. Despite limits on direct candidate contributions, funders can make unlimited campaign contributions to ballot measure committees and to influence candidate elections through independent expenditure committees. Some of these committees are purposely established to hide the source of their funding from voters. SB 52 will increase transparency of campaign spending in elections by replacing current law fine print disclosures with clear and prominent disclosures of major contributors on campaign advertisements.

SB 52 also closes a loophole in existing California disclosure law by requiring the disclosure of major funders on issue advocacy advertisements and electioneering communications. Issue advocacy advertisements are meant to influence state legislative or administrative action, whether or not they identify specific candidates. Electioneering communication, commonly referred to "sham issue ads," avoid current disclosure requirements by praising or attacking candidates without expressly advocating for their election or defeat.

The Political Reform Act of 1974 requires regular reports of political contributions to the Secretary of State. Ballot measures or independent expenditure committees are also required to include their name and the names of their top two funders of $50,000 or more in every political advertisement. However, weak disclosure requirements currently in place allow campaigns to obfuscate their top funders and make it difficult for voters to clearly identify the true source of campaign messages.

On the 100th anniversary of California's adoption of the initiative process, the California Field Poll conducted a survey that found Californians remained supportive of statewide ballot proposition elections, but believed reforms could be made to ensure greater direct democracy and weaken the influence of special interests. The Field Poll found that 84% of voters believed that disclosures by initiative sponsors should more clearly identify their major funders.

In 2010, the Supreme Court's Citizens United decision authorized unlimited spending by corporations, unions and individuals on political campaigns, but the court also upheld that "disclosure permits citizens and shareholders to react to the speech of corporate entities in a proper way. This transparency enables the electorate to make informed decisions and give proper weight to different speakers and messages."

During the 2012 election, more than $475 million was spent on ballot measures in California, with a significant portion coming from committees with vague and misleading names. There has never been a greater need to prevent voter deception and misinformation. Strengthening disclosure requirements on political advertisements will give voters the tools they need to be informed.

DISCLOSE is an acronym for Democracy is Strengthened by Casting Light on Spending in Elections.

Summary: Would revise and recast the provisions governing infrastructure financing districts. The bill would eliminate the requirement of voter approval for creation of the district and for bond issuance, and would authorize the legislative body to create the district subject to specified procedures. The bill would instead authorize a newly created public financing authority, consisting of 5 members, 3 of whom are members of the city council or board of supervisors that established the district, and 2 of whom are members of the public, to adopt the infrastructure financing plan, subject to approval by the legislative body, and issue bonds by majority vote of the authority by resolution. This bill contains other related provisions and other existing laws.

Summary: Current law, commencing January 1, 2014, prohibits a person from discharging from nonvehicular sources air contaminants or other materials that cause injury, detriment, nuisance, or annoyance to the public, or that endanger the comfort, repose, health, or safety of the public, or that cause injury or damage to business or property, as specified. This bill would require, unless the original penalties prescribed are greater, that on the initial date of a violation of this provision, a person who violates this provision by emitting a discharge from a stationary source required by federal law to be included in an operating permit program established pursuant to Title V of the federal Clean Air Act, when that discharge includes the release of toxic air contaminants, to be liable for a civil penalty of not more than $100,000. This bill would require that the recovery of a civil penalty under these provisions precludes prosecution of a misdemeanor for the same offense.
