

1.0 Introduction

City Attorney's Statement

We consider Oakland residents and business owners to be the shareholders of this municipal corporation, to whom we are ultimately accountable. Like any shareholder, you are entitled to know how your taxpayer dollars are spent for legal services.

This annual shareholder's report provides a detailed review and analysis of litigation trends, financial results and community initiatives for the fiscal year from July 1, 2008 to June 30, 2009.

This year was a challenging one for our city government, as it was for many of the Oaklanders who depend on the services we provide.

During this difficult year, our philosophy – law in service of the public – continued to guide how we provide legal services to the City of Oakland. We put this philosophy into practice by defending Oakland's progressive policies in court and initiating legal action when the community's quality of life or economic interests are jeopardized.

In FY08/09, our litigators aggressively defended the city in and out of court – more than two-thirds of all suits resolved this year were ended with no payment of money. Attorneys also continued to provide top notch legal advice to employees and officials in the other departments and branches of Oakland's government.

Mission Statement

The mission of the Oakland City Attorney's Office is:

To provide the highest quality legal services to the City of Oakland,

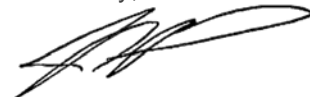

To promote open government, transparency and accountability to the residents of Oakland in accordance with the letter and spirit of the law, and

To apply the law in an innovative and community oriented manner to improve the quality of life in Oakland neighborhoods.

This year a new partnership with the Oakland Police Department and the District Attorney's Office created a criminal law unit within the City Attorney's Office to focus on misdemeanors and quality-of-life crimes. The Special Prosecution Team handled hundreds of cases in its first year. And the Neighborhood Law Corps – the city's community lawyering unit – continued its work on behalf of families living in substandard or foreclosed housing.

This report and the initiatives it details are driven by our commitment to transparency and accountability at all levels of government. Please don't hesitate to contact me with questions or feedback about any aspect of the work of the Oakland City Attorney's Office.

Sincerely,

John A. Russo
Oakland City Attorney

2.0 Financial Analysis

The Oakland City Attorney’s Office aggressively manages claims, lawsuits, operating expenses and outside counsel costs to save taxpayers money.

In FY08/09, the total cost to provide legal services to the City of Oakland was $23.73 million, including staff, litigation and operating expenses, outside counsel costs and payouts for claims, lawsuits and judgments (Figure 1). This represents a savings of $700,000 from the prior fiscal year, due in part to budget cuts mandated by the City Council and to our effort to limit payouts for claims and lawsuits (Figure 2).

Although overall costs decreased in FY08/09, the amount spent on outside counsel increased by 34 percent. The City Attorney’s Office handles a heavy case load, and cutting staff attorneys invariably increases the need for outside counsel to litigate cases.

With budget cuts mandated by the City Council, staffing in the City Attorney’s Office has reached a critical level at which further reductions in attorneys will be counter-productive – Oakland will spend more on outside counsel than it saves by cutting in-house attorneys. The cost of outside counsel this year – $2.33 million – is the highest since 2001/02 (excluding the Pacific Renaissance case, which spiked outside counsel costs in 2005/06 – Figure 3).

Year in Review: Financial Results

- Overall cost of legal services: $23.73 million (down from $24.43 million from last year)
- Total payouts for claims & lawsuits: $5.4 million (down from $6.1 million last year)
- Operating costs: $14.72 million (down from $15.41 million last year – due to reduction in staff)
- Outside counsel costs: $2.33 million (up from $1.74 million last year – mainly due to reduction in in-house attorneys)
- Outside counsel costs were highest since 2001/02 (excluding Pacific Renaissance case)
- Total billable hours: 69,637

2.1 Cost of Legal Services

The City Attorney's Office works diligently to contain costs and save taxpayer dollars. In FY08/09, the total cost to provide legal services to the City of Oakland dropped to $23.7 million. Budget cuts mandated by the City Council contributed to a drop in operating expenses of about $700,000. We also aggressively managed claims and lawsuits to reduce payouts – total payouts for claims and lawsuits dropped by $760,000 in this fiscal year.

2.2 Outside Counsel

The cost of outside counsel this year – $2.33 million – is the highest since 2001/02 (excluding the Pacific Renaissance case, which spiked outside counsel costs in 2005/06).

Costs increased significantly this year after budget cuts mandated by the City Council resulted in a loss of two staff attorneys in FY08/09. Cutting in-house attorneys may reduce operating costs, but it will invariably increase the need for outside counsel to handle cases and meet our legal obligations. On average, outside counsel costs $319 per hour, more than twice the average hourly cost of a staff Deputy City Attorney ($122 per hour).

With additional budget cuts resulting in the loss of three in-house attorneys in 2009/10, staffing in the City Attorney’s Office has reached a critical level at which further reductions will be counter-productive – Oakland will spend more on outside counsel than it saves by cutting in-house attorneys.

2.3 Allocation of Legal Resources

Figure 4 shows how the City Attorney’s Office is organized into practice areas to better serve our clients. This chart does not include the City Attorney and the two Assistant City Attorneys. Despite cuts in staff, the total number of attorneys increased by one this year due to the creation of a new criminal prosecution unit, approved by the City Council last year.

Figure 5 is a breakdown of billable hours by department. Although the City Attorney’s Office does not bill time directly to departments, we closely track billable hours internally to manage resources and contain legal costs.

The designation of department counsels for the Oakland Police Department and the Department of Public Works has contributed to better risk management in two areas where the City has typically had greater exposure.

Office Profile FY08/09

The Oakland City Attorney’s Office continued to be one of the most diverse legal teams in the country, with 68% women and 66% people of color on staff.

This year our office included:

42 attorneys – City Attorney, 2 Assistant City Attorneys, 11 litigation, 22 advice, 3 Neighborhood Law Corps and 3 criminal attorneys.

28 support staff – legal administrative assistants, paralegals, clerks, claims investigators and executive assistants.

7 operations staff – budget, accounting, information technology and support, communications, personnel administration, and an Open Government Coordinator.

3.0 Management of Claims & Litigation

The Oakland City Attorney's Office uses strategic litigation techniques to protect taxpayer dollars.

Claims fall into three categories: municipal infrastructure (streets, sewers and sidewalks), police matters (conduct, towing, jail and property damage) and city vehicle accidents. Lawsuits primarily arise in the same three categories, with the addition of personnel/labor.

The number of claims and lawsuits received dropped slightly this year (Tables 1 & 2 on the next page). Of note are decreases in the number of claims and lawsuits involving police matters (Figure 6).

We aggressively manage liability at the claims stage to reduce the number of claims that evolve into lawsuits. When there is clear liability, we seek to settle claims early to avoid the higher costs of defense and to discourage plaintiffs' attorneys from increasing fees through needless litigation.

This year, 71 percent of claims – almost three out of every four – were resolved with no payment of money (Figure 7). The large majority of denied claims – more than 90 percent – never become lawsuits, underscoring the effectiveness of our strategy (Figure 9).

When lawsuits are filed, we seek to reduce litigation costs and limit potential exposure by filing motions to dismiss defendants and causes of action, thereby narrowing the scope of defense.

More than two-thirds of lawsuits resolved in FY08/09 resulted in no payment of money (Figure 8). Only seven cases resulted in payouts of more than $100,000 (Table 7). The largest amount of payouts this year resulted from claims and lawsuits involving police matters (Figures 10 & 11). The total amount of payouts for claims and lawsuits this year – $5.4 million – is a significant drop from the previous fiscal year, and is lower than the 10-year average of $5.7 million (Figure 12).

The City Attorney's Office also initiates legal action on behalf of the municipal corporation when the community's quality of life or economic interests are jeopardized. Plaintiff actions initiated in FY08/09 included five lawsuits against major banks and local agents responsible for illegal evictions of tenants living in foreclosed buildings (Attachment F).

4.0 Special Programs

4.1 Special Prosecution Team

In Oakland, felonies and major crimes are prosecuted by the Alameda County District Attorney.

This year, in partnership with the Alameda County District Attorney's Office and the Oakland Police Department, the City Attorney's Office created a new unit to step up criminal prosecution of misdemeanors, infractions and "quality-of-life" crimes.

With approval from the City Council, we created the Special Prosecution Team to target the kind of pervasive misdemeanor crimes that, left unchecked, degrade the social and economic life of our neighborhoods and invariably contribute to more serious crime, fear and disorder in Oakland. Working closely with the community, the unit focuses on prosecuting crimes such as prostitution, disturbing the peace, vandalism, cruelty to animals, illegal dumping, disorderly conduct and drug-related offenses. Most of the cases handled by the Special Prosecution Team are violations of the state Penal Code (see sidebar below).

In addition to reviewing, overseeing and prosecuting appropriate cases, the Special Prosecution Team responds to community inquiries, attends Neighborhood Crime Prevention Council and other community meetings, studies and analyzes hot spots and crime trends in Oakland and trains police officers on methodologies to improve investigations and documentation of evidence.

The unit works closely with the District Attorney's Office to charge and prosecute cases. City prosecutors presented several hundred criminal cases for charging in FY08/09 (Figure 13).

Many of the defendants in those cases agreed to settlements or other resolutions, thereby avoiding a trial. The unit's first trial win was a guilty verdict in a vandalism case in April of this year. In that case, a resident in the Maxwell Park area was charged with vandalism after decapitating a number of her neighbor's trees. The defendant was considered by neighbors to be a source of considerable nuisances. Over a period of several years, she had allegedly vandalized a number of trees on her block, and in one instance, painted a neighbor's garage door red for no apparent reason. The defendant's sentence included 30 days in jail and an order to pay restitution for the decapitated trees. This prosecution hopefully will remedy a long-running problem and improve the quality of life for neighbors on the block. At the trial, neighbors expressed appreciation for the City's help in resolving this matter.

In addition to charging cases, the Special Prosecutors employ intervention services and restorative justice programs in appropriate circumstances.

One prosecutor is assigned to each of the Oakland Police Department's three command areas. In addition to three criminal prosecutors, the team includes one civil attorney assigned to clean up or shut down nuisance liquor outlets.

Case highlights and other accomplishments for the team are included in Attachment G.

Types of violations received by the Special Prosecution Team FY08/09

Penal Code: 672 (84%)

Health & Safety Code: 62 (7%)

Oakland Municipal Code: 36 (5%)

Business & Professions Code: 16 (2%)

Vehicle Code: 15 (2%)

Total: 801

4.2 Problem Liquor Outlet Enforcement

The City Attorney's Office continued to work aggressively with the Oakland Police Department's Alcoholic Beverage Action Team (ABAT), the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) and residents to improve or shut down liquor outlets that contribute to blight, crime and other serious problems in Oakland neighborhoods.

The City Attorney's Office first works with property and business owners to clean up problem outlets. When businesses prove unable or unwilling to make necessary improvements, we use legal means – including lawsuits and removal of land use status allowing liquor sales – to shut them down (Table 8).

Table 8: Abatement of Problem Liquor Outlets FY08/09

Name	Address	Ended Liquor Sales	Result
Arrwa One Stop	8607 Bancroft Ave.	Yes	Store closed last year – city won appeal in FY08/09

Land Use Lapsed means the City has changed the status of the property, making it impossible for anyone to sell alcohol at that address in the future without a Conditional Use Permit from the City.*

Liquor Enforcement Highlights for FY08/09:

1. City litigation resulted in the closure of La Oficina bar, a nuisance liquor outlet at 4768 International Boulevard.

According to Oakland Police, La Oficina functioned as the hub of a drug network – between summer 2005 and summer 2007, at least 10 people were arrested for sales or possession of narcotics, with 44 bags of meth and 58 bags of cocaine recovered from inside the bar. At the time of the City Attorney's Annual Report last year, the litigation against the bar was pending and the bar was closed. After numerous litigation delays by defendants, the City successfully lapsed La Oficina's deemed approved land use status on May 20, 2009, effectively ending the City's ongoing litigation against the owners and indefinitely suspending liquor sales at this address. An appeal by the bar is pending.

2. The Seven Seas Bar at 4001 MacArthur Boulevard closed its doors this year after simultaneous enforcement actions by the Oakland Police Department, the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) and the Oakland City Attorney's Office.

In 2008, the City Attorney's Office filed a public nuisance lawsuit against the Seven Seas and the Hoang brothers, the owners of the property who rented space to the Seven Seas bar and the adjacent Seagull Market. The lawsuit, based on evidence gathered by Oakland police investigators, was filed in response to repeated incidents of violence at the bar, including three shootings in the space of one year that began as disputes inside the bar and spilled out into the neighborhood.

The bar officially lost its license to sell alcohol in April of this year after an undercover operation by ABC resulted in multiple arrests and charges against the bar's owners for receiving stolen property. The same investigation also resulted in the closure of the adjacent liquor store, the Seagull Market, which shut its doors on January 22, 2009. Facing criminal, civil and administrative legal actions, the Seven Seas followed suit, closing its doors on April 1, 2009.

3. The La Raza liquor store at 5001 Bancroft Avenue brought years of grief to neighbors in the Melrose neighborhood in the form of drug dealing, loitering and problems associated with public drunkenness.

On February 5, 2009, the property owners and store operators agreed to operating conditions designed to reduce nuisances at the property. Oakland police and community members documented voluminous violations of the stipulated operating conditions and the City called a revocation hearing on July 2, 2009. The resulting order of the hearing officer demanded the operators cease the sale of alcohol, a victory for the neighbors. At the time of this report, the order was pending appeal.

4. In 2008, the Oakland Police Department and Alameda County Drug Task Force conducted multiple arrests and served numerous search warrants for narcotics sales at Los Dos Hermanos bar at 2331 International Boulevard.

In concurrent separate actions by the City Attorney's Office, the Alameda County District Attorney's Office and the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, the operator's license was suspended indefinitely and is pending transfer out of Oakland. The operator pleaded no contest to felony possession of cocaine for sale, and the City lapsed the land use status of the property, meaning that no business can sell alcohol there in the future without a Conditional Use Permit. The bar closed its doors in April 2009.

4.3 Neighborhood Law Corps

Oakland's Neighborhood Law Corps, started in 2002, is a unit of newly licensed lawyers in the City Attorney's Office focused on using the law to improve the quality of life in Oakland neighborhoods. The program, often described as "Legal Aid meets the Peace Corps," has been recognized with the Gold Medal for Municipal Excellence from the National League of Cities.

The Neighborhood Law Corps continues to work with the Oakland Police Department to close drug houses and prosecute hotels and motels that act as havens for prostitution, including child prostitution. The unit has prosecuted owners of drug houses throughout the city, and has sued property owners to stop prostitution at various hotels and other sites in Oakland.

In recent years, the Neighborhood Law Corps has played a major role in the city's effort to protect tenants in foreclosed buildings. Attorneys have intervened in numerous cases to stop illegal evictions and have helped facilitate the restoration of utility services in foreclosed homes.

In FY08/09, Law Corps attorneys filed five lawsuits accusing major banks, their subsidiary companies and several local real estate agents of violating an Oakland law that protects tenants from unjust evictions. The unit filed lawsuits in February and March of 2009 against JPMorgan Chase and Fidelity National Financial, along with local agents who were paid to remove tenants from properties the banks had acquired through foreclosure. Tenants in foreclosed homes provided many examples of improper eviction notices served by those agents. Some of the defendants, including JPMorgan Chase, were forced to cease illegal evictions and pay fines to the City.

4.4 Open Government Program

The City Attorney's Office created the Open Government Program to ensure transparency and accountability in city government. The program conducts ongoing training and monitoring of city boards and commissions to ensure that meeting agendas are properly noticed. The program also provides technical and legal assistance to city departments. In FY08/09, the City Attorney's Open Government Coordinator handled 250 public records requests.

5.0 Community Initiatives & Partnerships

5.1 Real Oakland Administrative Reform (ROAR)

In July 2008, City Attorney John Russo, City Auditor Courtney Ruby and City Councilmembers Ignacio De La Fuente and Patricia Kernighan presented a package of reforms to make city government more transparent, accountable and effective for the taxpayers of Oakland.

The package, called Real Oakland Administrative Reform, or ROAR, included five good government proposals: a whistleblower protection ordinance, an anti-nepotism ordinance, an employee ethics training program, reform of personnel department procedures and reform of Oakland's records management practices.

The City Council adopted the whistleblower ordinance, which has resulted in a program – administered by the City Auditor's Office – that protects City employees who report waste, fraud, abuse or misuse of funds. The nepotism ordinance was adopted by the City Council, but was challenged in court by the Oakland Police Officers Association. The ordinance was stayed by a judge, and the City Attorney's Office is now in negotiations with the plaintiffs.

The City Attorney's Office, the City Auditor's Office and the Public Ethics Commission submitted a proposal in August of this year to provide ethics training to City employees, including all City managers. With approval from the City Administrator, the City Attorney's Office and the Public Ethics Commission have begun to schedule trainings.

Reform of records management has moved at a slower pace since the City Attorney's Office, the City Clerk's Office and the Public Ethics Commission brought a legislative proposal to the City Council on November 3 of last year. Since that time, there has been sporadic attendance by departmental staff at meetings of the Records Management Committee, and the City's records manager has resigned. The City Clerk is expected to bring a records reform proposal to the City Council in coming months.

At the date of this report, reforms recommended by the City Attorney and City Auditor for the City's personnel procedures have yet to be adopted by the City Administrator.

6.0 Conclusion

We are proud to represent a progressive and innovative city where the law can be a powerful tool for community empowerment and improvement. We are dedicated to defending Oakland's policies in court and initiating legal action when the community's quality of life or economic interests are jeopardized. Our commitment to accountability, fiscal responsibility and access to city government continues to be the cornerstone of our work.

A detailed summary of the work of the individual units of the City Attorney's Office during the 2008/09 fiscal year can be found in the attachments to this report. For more information, please visit <http://www.oaklandcityattorney.org/>.

7.6 Special Prosecution Team

- Case: People v. Cynthia McCurdy
Charge: Vandalism

Facts: Neighbors say McCurdy had been a problem in the Maxwell Park area for approximately eight years. During this time, McCurdy allegedly had vandalized several of her neighbors' properties by destroying their trees, plants and other vegetation. In one instance she painted a neighbor's garage door red for no apparent reason.

In September 2009, McCurdy decided to decapitate seven of a neighbor's back yard trees. Another neighbor noticed the trees moving suspiciously, and after closer inspection, observed the defendant cutting them by leaning over the fence.

With cooperation from the Oakland police and the Alameda County District Attorney's Office, the Special Prosecutor from Area 3 charged the defendant with vandalism. The jury came back with a guilty verdict on April 16, 2009. McCurdy was sentenced to three years of court probation, 30 days in county jail or the Alameda County Sheriff's Work Alternative Program and 26 anger management classes. She was ordered to stay away from the victim's property, pay $8,238 in restitution to the victim and pay a $120 fine. The criminal charge and guilty verdict hopefully will remove a source of problems and improve the quality of life for residents on this block.

NOTE: This case marked the first win at trial for the Special Prosecution Team.

- Case: People v. Ivan Tames
Charge: Petty Theft

Facts: The defendant, a laid off construction worker, stole 10 books from Barnes & Noble bookstore in Jack London Square. The City's prosecutor determined – given the defendant's skills in the construction trade and his lack of a criminal record – that justice would be better served by giving the defendant community service instead of a 30-day jail sentence.

The Special Prosecutor for Area 1 contacted the Beebe Memorial Cathedral at 3900 Telegraph Avenue. The church needed repair work and agreed to monitor the defendant's community service. The defendant was required to complete 50 hours of community service and pay restitution to the bookstore in addition to serving five days in Alameda County jail. The defendant completed work at the cathedral including: repairing and painting the baptismal pool, repairing walls that showed signs of water damage, cleaning and repairing bathrooms in the sanctuary building, replacing worn tiles and reinforcing wood panels in the church's education building.

- Case: People v. Ronnie Mack
Charge: Trespassing

Facts: The defendant, who is homeless, was charged with trespassing after refusing to vacate a burned-out church where he was living. The pastor of the church had given the defendant permission to use the burned building as a shelter. However, when the church decided to sell the property and raze the building, the defendant refused to leave. The pastor finally called police to arrest the defendant for trespassing.

The Special Prosecutor for Area 1 contacted Alameda County mental health services to assign a case manager for the defendant. The defendant is a veteran, so the case manager was able to bring in help from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. The City intends to dismiss the case, with the pastor's consent, pending confirmation that the defendant is receiving services from the Department of Veterans Affairs.

- Case: People v. multiple defendants
Charges: Being a spectator at a cockfight
Facts: On February 28, 2009, 69 men were cited and two arrested after an Oakland police raid on a cockfighting event at Sanchez Ironworks – 725 Clara Street.

Police found dead fighting birds, a large amount of blood on the property and on some spectators, animal steroids, veterinary equipment and gaffs – the razors attached to the feet of the birds – in decorative boxes.

The Special Prosecutor for Area 3 was given a courtroom to handle only cockfighting cases on May 11. The majority of the defendants have settled. To date, defendants have paid about $12,000 in fines and served 111 hours of community service for organizations such as Habitat for Humanity, Project 22 and the City of Oakland Department of Public Works. Two defendants were placed on delayed entry of judgment for the being a spectator to cockfighting. If these two defendants are caught at another cockfight within two years, they will have the initial misdemeanor charge on their record and the next spectator charge will be a felony.

- In addition to charging cases, Special Prosecutors worked with the District Attorney's Office to address the proliferation of prostitution in Oakland by asking Judge Carol Brosnahan to update and extend stay-away orders for convicted prostitutes. Stay Away from Areas of Prostitution (SOAP) orders are often used to keep recidivist prostitutes from operating in known areas of prostitution. Judge Brosnahan agreed to extend the boundaries for SOAP orders to incorporate the growth of prostitution areas in Oakland.
- Prosecutors also worked to educate Oakland police officers on search warrants and reviewed warrants prior to service. One such warrant prepared for the Lemon Drop Coffee Shop (a rogue cannabis club) and the shop owner's home in San Ramon yielded weapons as well as narcotics.
