I am a resident and homeowner in Oakland who cares deeply about my community. I started my career in New York City working in the Bloomberg administration to support initiatives that helped low-income New Yorkers increase their access to wealth creation opportunities and better education. Since moving to the bay area, I've transitioned careers into finance, but my excitement about the impact of the public sector remains. Through one of these boards, I hope to deepen my engagement in my community and ensure that the most underprivileged are safe and have shelter.
