Subject: Slavery Era Disclosure Ordinance –An Ordinance (1) Requiring City Contractors who Provide Insurance, Financial and Other Services to the City to Research and Disclose to the City Records Evidencing Benefits from the American Slave Trade; and (2) Establishing a Fund to Include but not be Limited to Support for Education and Economic Development

Dear Chairperson Quan and Members of the Committee:

Summary

This ordinance would require that City contractors providing insurance or financial services to the City (including but not limited to banks in which the City deposits public funds and investment managers), and textile companies, tobacco companies, railroad companies, shipping companies, rice, sugar and other business entities doing business with the City, execute an affidavit attesting to the fact that the contractor has researched all records within the possession, control and/or knowledge to determine whether the contractor, directly or through its parent entities, subsidiaries or predecessors in interest bought or sold slaves, used slaves as collateral for insurance policies or other transactions, provided loans to purchase slaves and/or provided related or other services to aid and abet such transactions during the slavery era. Contractors also must disclose in the affidavit the names of slaveholders and slaves described in the records.

The ordinance establishes a fund to include but not limited to, educational support and support for economic development in depressed areas of Oakland to which contractors subject to the ordinance, as well as entities who are not City contractors, may make voluntary contributions. The City Administrator will oversee the fund and make funding decisions consistent with guidelines that the Council approves. The City Administrator will make an annual report to Council that identifies the funding recipients.

Subject: Slavery Era Disclosure Ordinance

Fiscal Impact

The ordinance would require that staff time to obtain and review disclosures. Contractors will incur the cost of researching records of slavery-related transactions.

Background

The City of Richmond, City of Berkeley and the City of Chicago and the State of California have enacted laws that require disclosure of slavery insurance policies by contractors. The City of Richmond covers contracting insurance/financial institutions that contract with the City and gives the City option to divest investments in instruments that benefited from slavery. The City of Chicago's ordinance requires disclosure by all contractors, but does not include a divestment provision. The City of Berkeley covers contractors providing insurance or financial services and creates a right of private action to enforce the ordinance. The State of California requires disclosures from insurance companies licensed and doing business in California. The City of Richmond, City of Berkeley and City of Chicago ordinances also give the cities the option to deem a contract null and void if the contractor fails to comply with the ordinances' requirements.

Key Issues and Impacts

This ordinance would require that contractors subject to the ordinance perform research and provide disclosures to the City of slavery era records evidencing benefits from the American slave trade and would entitle the City Administrator to terminate contractors for noncompliance. The City Attorney as well any Oakland resident may file a lawsuit to enforce the ordinance's provisions.

This ordinance also establishes a fund to which contractors subject to this ordinance, and others, may make voluntary contributions to promote healing and assist the City in rectifying and remedying some of the legacies of the shameful commerce in slavery.

Sustainable Opportunities

Economic – This ordinance may create economic opportunities for the City.

Environmental – This ordinance does not have any environmental impacts.

Social Equity – The ordinance is a valuable and critical tool for the City to redress the legacy and inequities caused by slavery.

Disability and Senior Citizen Access

This report does not raise any access issues.

Subject: Slavery Era Disclosure Ordinance

Recommendation and Rationale

I recommend that the Council adopt the ordinance to assure full disclosure of records showing benefits from the American slave trade and to establish a fund to be used for purposes, including but not limited to, educational support and economic development of depressed areas of the City to promote healing. The legal, commerce in slavery enabled slaveholders, the insurance industry, financial services industry, textile industry, tobacco industry, railroads, shipping companies, rice, sugar and many other businesses to profit from slavery as well as from damages to and death of slaves. The adoption of this ordinance is critical to address the ongoing legacy of slavery and to provide the information that will enable this City and the state and federal governments to remediate these tragic atrocities.

Action Requested of the City Council

Councilmember Reid requests that the City Council adopt the ordinance.

Very truly yours,

HONORABLE LARRY REID
City Council District 7

WHEREAS, Senate Bill 2199, codified at California Insurance Code section 13810 et seq., requires (1) that the State Insurance Commissioner request and obtain information from insurers licensed and doing business in California regarding records of slaveholder insurance policies issued by any predecessor corporation during the slavery era; (2) that each insurer licensed and doing business in California research and report to the Insurance Commissioner with respect to any records in their possession or knowledge relating to insurance policies issued to slaveholders that provided coverage for damage to or death of their slaves; (3) that the State Insurance Commissioner obtain the names of any slaveholders or slaves described in the insurance records and make the information available to the public and the Legislature; and (4) full disclosure to descendants of slaves, whose ancestors were defined as private property, dehumanized, divided from their families, forced to perform labor without appropriate compensation or benefits and whose ancestors' owners were compensated for damages by insurers; and

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Oakland, pays tribute to and honors the slaves who toiled and sacrificed their lives in building this country's economic foundation and also honors descendants of those slaves in America who, notwithstanding the degradation of slavery, discrimination and the systematic efforts to deprive them of a sense of family, human dignity and prosperity, have developed a vibrant community, culture and creative genius and made untold contributions to the fabric of our society, in the absence of which this nation would not be recognizable; and

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Oakland urgently calls upon the state and federal governments to recognize the sufferings of African slaves and promote and provide reparations for their descendants; and coverage for damage to or death of their slaves, records evidencing buying and selling of slaves, use of slaves as collateral, and/or providing any other related or other services to aid and abet the said transactions;

NOW THEREFORE, The Council of the City of Oakland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. Title

This title shall be known and may be officially cited as the “City of Oakland Slavery Era Disclosure Ordinance” and shall be codified as Chapter 9.60 of Title 9 of the Oakland Municipal Code, entitled “Public Peace, Morals and Welfare”.

Section 2. Findings and Purpose

- A. Insurance policies from the American slavery era have been discovered in the archives of several insurance companies documenting insurance coverage to slaveholders for damage to or death of their slaves, and were issued by current or a predecessor insurance firm. Further, records may exist that show that companies providing insurance or financial services to the City (including any bank in which the City deposits public funds and investment managers) and textile, tobacco, railroad, shipping, rice and sugar companies doing business with the City, either directly or through their parent entities, subsidiaries or predecessors in interest or otherwise, bought or sold slaves, used slaves as collateral for insurance policies or other transactions, provided loans to purchase slaves, insured such transactions or the slaves, and/or provided related or other services to aid and abet such transactions.
- B. These insurance policies and other documents and records provide evidence of ill-gotten profits from slavery, which profits in part capitalized insurers, financial services providers, textile companies, tobacco companies, railroads, shipping companies, rice, sugar industry and other entities, whose successors remain in existence today, and such profits from the uncompensated labor of enslaved Africans represent a continuing legacy of slavery.
- C. The City of Oakland finds and declares that the fact that slavery was legal in certain parts of the United States at the time these contemptible practices occurred does not make the practices any less repugnant, abhorrent or deplorable, nor in any way diminish the gravity of these wrongs or the importance of rectifying and remediating these travesties.
- D. Many Oakland residents are descendants of slaves, whose ancestors were defined as private property, dehumanized, snatched from their families, coerced into performing labor without appropriate compensation or benefits and whose ancestors’ owners were compensated for damages by insurers.
- E. Appropriate compensation to Africans for their labor otherwise would have been bequeathed to their descendants to assist them in developing a solid economic base, providing a level playing field and pursuing equal opportunity in this country.

- F. The aforesaid residents as well as all of the residents of Oakland are entitled to full disclosure of the information regarding the above-described transactions that compensated slaveholders for damages to and death of slaves and provided other profits.
- G. The City of Oakland acknowledges the loss of assets that rightfully should be the property of descendants of African slaves and extends its apologies to their descendants who continue to suffer the legacy of slavery.
- H. The City Council finds that full disclosure of the facts and acknowledgement of the depth and scope of the shameful commerce in slavery furthers the public interest in that it promotes public health, safety and welfare and healing in the Oakland community both on the part of those who have been and are continuing to be harmed as well as those who profited from this abhorrent practice. The City Council further finds that the establishment of a fund to which contractors subject to this ordinance and others may make voluntary contributions will promote healing and assist the City in rectifying and remedying some of the legacies of the shameful commerce in slavery.
- I. The purpose of this ordinance is to promote full and accurate disclosure to the public of slavery insurance policies, evidence of purchase and sale of slaves, use of slaves as collateral, provision of loans to purchase slaves, insuring transactions or the slaves, and/or provision of any related or other services to aid and abet such transactions by (i) any contractors providing insurance services or financial services to the City and (ii) any textile, tobacco, railroad, shipping, rice and sugar companies doing business with the City, directly or through their parent entities, subsidiaries or predecessors in interest.
- J. The purpose of this ordinance also is to establish a fund to which contractors subject to this ordinance can make voluntary contributions to promote healing and assist in remedying the depressed economic conditions, poverty, unequal educational opportunity and other legacies of slavery.
