BACKGROUND

In 2004, the U.S. Government released demographic and regional breakdowns of trafficking victims. The estimates broke down global demographics of victims by sex, age, and type of exploitation, as well as by the flow of victims among six geographical regions (Africa, East Asia and the Pacific, Europe and Eurasia, Near East, South Asia, and the Western Hemisphere) and the United States.

The following are some notable statistics:

- Approximately 80 percent of the victims are female, 70 percent of whom are trafficked for the commercial sex industry.
- Roughly two-thirds of the global victims are trafficked intra-regionally within East Asia and the Pacific (260,000 to 280,000 people) and Europe and Eurasia (170,000 to 210,000 people).
- The largest number of people trafficked into the United States come from East Asia and the Pacific (5,000 to 7,000). The next highest numbers come from Latin America and from Europe and Eurasia, at between 3,500 and 5,500 victims from each.

KEY ISSUES AND IMPACTS

Human trafficking refers, in part, to the recruitment, harboring and transportation of adults and youths through the use of force, fraud, or coercion for the purpose of commercial sexual activity, sexual exploitation, sweatshop labor, involuntary servitude, and other criminal activity.

Not restrained by boundaries or jurisdiction, human trafficking requires a coordinated, multi-jurisdictional response by law enforcement and non-government organizations. The funds received will be used to assist local communities in the development of sustainable and effective project coordination among federal, state, and local law enforcement, and with prosecutors and victim service providers.

The City of Oakland has seen increased incidents of human trafficking in two areas:

- The prostitution of minors by pimps - A survey conducted by OPD in 2002 identified over 218 minors actively being prostituted. By September 2004, the number had doubled; the average age of these minors is between 12 and 17 years. Since 2006, the OPD has rescued (contacted/detailed/arrested and connected with advocacy services) 218 juveniles as a result of their investigative and enforcement operations.

2006	67 Juveniles
2007	29 Juveniles
2008	24 Juveniles
2009	71 Juveniles
2010 (Year to Date)	27 Juveniles
Total	218

- Women (primarily Asian) are being trafficked to different massage parlors throughout the Oakland / Bay Area. Undercover operations, surveillance and intelligence information received by OPD indicate approximately 70% of the massage parlors in the Oakland area are involved in criminal activity. During the past year, the majority of persons arrested from massage parlors fit a similar profile: Asian females, speaking no English, possessing no passport and/or other form of face identification. Many of these women were being held hostage - - to work off debts, by way of prostitution.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The Oakland Police Department will serve as the lead agency for grant administration and project coordination of an East Bay Task Force on Human Trafficking. The following local government agencies have agreed to partner with OPD in the Task Force: Alameda County Office of the District Attorney, Alameda County Sheriff's Department. Non-government partner organizations on the Task Force will be Bay Area Women Against Rape (BAWAR)

The goals of the East Bay Task Force on Human Trafficking are:

- Increase public awareness and knowledge of the crime of human trafficking and its relationship to:
  - prostitution and other commercial sexual activity
  - sexual exploitation
  - sweatshops
  - domestic servitude
  - other criminal activity, and the impact on local communities
- Identify and rescue victims and neutralize criminal human trafficking enterprises
- Facilitate the development of service protocols by developing and implementing training in the identification of trafficking victims
- Prosecute traffickers
- Ensure the safety and security of victims, through receipt of social services, for successful reentry to the community

The grant funds will be used to provide training and education to law enforcement, non-government organizations, emergency first responders, junior high and high school teachers, administrators and students. The training and education component will foster a stronger intelligence network in the Bay Area. This intelligence will aid Task Force members in identifying lesser known forms of human trafficking, such as involuntary servitude as a domestic, sweatshop worker, janitor, restaurant worker, migrant farm worker and hotel/tourist trade worker.

Task Force law enforcement activity and operations will seek to discover, identify, and respond to the primary stages of human trafficking: Recruitment, control and transporting, and exploitation of victims. Operations will include undercover, surveillance, and decoy operations, Internet investigations and exercise of regulatory control practices on sex industry establishments and on those enterprises likely to exploit victims through other forms of labor.

SUSTAINABLE OPPORTUNITIES

Economic: Reducing human trafficking activities will improve the City's image as a safe place in which to conduct business, as well as social and recreational activities. All equipment included in the spending plan will, whenever possible, be purchased locally.

Environmental: There are no environmental issues associated with this report.

Equity: The outreach efforts of the East Bay Task Force on Human Trafficking will seek to disseminate information to vulnerable populations and districts to alert them that help is available.
