PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Secretary-Treasurer, Alameda County Building and Construction Trades Council, Oakland, CA. (12/99 - present). The Secretary-Treasurer is the head a Council of 28 Trade Unions in the construction Industry for Alameda County. Responsible for negotiating on behalf of all crafts in multi-craft negotiations of Project Labor Agreements (which can run into the hundreds of millions) with Public Agencies and Private owners and Developers. Also responsible for representing all the crafts when interfacing with local politicians, including Federal Congressperson state Senators and Assembly persons, County Supervisors, mayors and many others. Also responsible for developing relations with contractor organizations, community based organizations, and public agency staff around the development of workforce programs. Responsible for directing and managing an office of four staff, consultants and volunteers. Position is an elected position on a three year term, reporting to an Executive Board and ultimately to the Delegates.

Business Representative, Alameda County Building and Construction Trades Council, Oakland, CA. (1/09 - 11/09). This position reported to the Secretary-Treasurer (see above description) and worked on specific projects such as Project Labor Agreements, political mobilization, and affiliate education. This position was a temporary position designed to prepare for the eventual assumption, through election, of the Secretary-Treasurer.

Compliance Officer, Northern California Electrical Construction Industry. Dublin CA. (2/07 - 12/08). Responsible for the prevailing wage compliance in the Electrical Industry in Alameda County for the Labor-Management (IBEW/NECA) compliance group. Duties included, but were not limited to on-site verification and worker interviews, auditing of Certified Weekly Payroll records, preparing and presenting bid protest (against contractors who had a history of prevailing wage violations) to agencies awarding contracts, preparing violation cases for the DLSE or attorneys, presenting monthly to labor and contractor groups, and participating in the streamlining of compliance practices and procedures. The highlight of the work was uncovering the violation against NBC Contractors, which has become the poster child case for wage theft in the Bay Area.

Southern African Program Director, American Center for International Solidarity, AFL-CIO, Durban, RSA. (4/03 - 1/07). Responsible for the managing of the Solidarity Center's Durban office, covering projects in the countries of Lesotho, Swaziland, Malawi, Madagascar, Mozambique, Angola, and Namibia. Portfolio of programs included trade union capacity building projects in the sectors of garment and textiles, metal industry, petroleum, and work with national centers. Primary project was a DRL funded Southern Africa Anti-sweatshop program, where responsibilities included the design, development, and project management. Duties included the day-to-day operations of the field office and local staff and consultants, monitoring of program performance and results, was responsible for developing and monitoring project budget, and the preparation of reports on all program aspects. Additional project responsibilities included planning and coordinating activities with regional partners such as the ITGLWF Africa, and national garment and textile unions. Position required extensive travel and knowledge of the entire Southern African region. In addition to project activities, position involves working with AFL-CIO affiliates to coordinate their participation in the project, development of relationships with US government personnel in region to ensure they understand the role of labor in development and of Solidarity Center programs in the context of their country/regional strategy.

and developing coalition-building contacts with national and international labor, government and non-governmental organizations in the region.

Program Officer, American Center for International Solidarity, Washington, D.C. (11/02 – 3/03).

Primary responsibility was for providing support to ACILS field offices in Southern Africa. Duties included developing implementation plans for the various programs, researching labor, economic and political conditions of the region, monitoring various program budgets and processing financial and administrative requests from the field. One of the main responsibilities was to initiate project planning and design for a DRL funded Southern Africa Anti-sweatshop program. Also served on Export Processing Zones (EPZ) committee that coordinated ACILS programs relating to EPZs.

CAREER BRIEF

Early experience in social work and the community action program led Arabella to the conviction that economic development, evolving from strong, community-directed institutions, was the most effective path toward economic self-sufficiency and empowerment.

She developed such an institution, the into a multi-million dollar community development corporation. Throughout her career she has been instrumental in helping to create and build institutions that positively supported the role of minorities and women in the economy and larger society.

In 1977 she became Assistant Secretary for the Office of Human Development Services, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Appointed by President Jimmy Carter, she was the first Latina appointed to a sub-cabinet level position in the history of the nation.

For a decade after leaving public service, the goals of economic empowerment and self-sufficiency for women and minorities were further delineated through important consultations and studies for major foundations and corporations. During this period, organizational and resource development assistance was provided to a number of organizations, including the Women's Initiative for Self-Employment and the Oakland YWCA.

In December 1989, a new challenge was joined to restore the financial vitality of the Unity Council, and reestablish it as one of the largest and most respected community development corporations in the nation. The development of a $100 million transit-oriented, mixed-use, in-fill development in the heart of the Fruitvale, an inner city neighborhood has become a national and international model of comprehensive and sustainable neighborhood revitalization.

The Unity Council's community development place-based strategy was adopted by many foundations and government agencies, and has been emulated in other localities throughout the nation. Its vision of sustainable development, linking land-use, transportation and economic development resulted in major policy changes at all levels of government. Its extensive public/private partnerships and its collaborations with other non-profits contributed to its credibility and reputation with the business community, political leaders, local and national philanthropic supporters, Fruitvale residents and other stakeholders. Over fifteen years, her work generated more than $200 million in support for the Unity Council, its Transit Village development and open space initiatives.

After retiring from the Unity Council in 2005, Arabella joined the Latino Community Foundation Board of Trustees and in 2014 she became its Interim CEO to help build a Latino philanthropic institution in California. With her second retirement, she has rejoined the LCF Board of Trustees as a passionate advocate for the Latino community, its institutions and community-based organizations.

ARABELLA MARTINEZ

Many national and local organizations have recognized her with Board membership, awards and speaking engagements throughout the nation. Some of her awards include: "Community Leadership Award" – The San Francisco Foundation; "President's Award" from the National Council of La Raza; "The David C. Lizarraga Award for Community Development" from the National Association for Latino Community Asset Builders; "Women of Courage Award" from Family Bridges; "Lifetime Achievement" Leadership Awards from the Non-Profit Housing Association of Northern California; "A Woman Who Could Be President" from the San Francisco League of Women Voters.
